Feedback Highlights from User :

- Maybe just open to let the user take photos or videos or navigate content.

- The tabs are nice but might be a bit confusing if the profile information is not included in the tab bar

- The filtering content is very nice

- User really enjoyed the grid view versus stream view

- User thinks that the groups should be the landing page for the accessing content section, to allow them to have multiple friend groups

- User found the app to be a bit too basic and elementary

- Specifically with the frame focused on changing the grid view back to a stream view, the user thought maybe it should take up the whole screen instead of still having the tab bar available for navigation

- User thought that it might be nice to have an automatic camera function where it automatically uploads the content that is taken (this is difficult because often seniors need the ability to go back or redo pictures and videos or else it may clutter the stream with blurry photos or just accidental content.

Constraints:

- User is college age with high technological literacy

- Despite presenting it as an app to share with families (in hopes of encouraging the user to think about different generations using the app) , the user primarily visualized the app as something that her friend group could use which led to slightly more complex suggestions
